All young people aged 11 -18 who live or study in North Tyneside can stand for the position and can vote for who they want to represent them. The Youth Council is made up of 50 youth councillors, aged 11 to 19 years old from across North Tyneside. They represent the views and ideas of other young people in North Tyneside. Although numbers of ballots returned from some Schools and Colleges are lower, there is a higher engagement of young people voting from the harder to reach groups, i.e. disabled young people and young people not in mainstream schools attending youth training projects.

An improvement has also been seen amongst the pupils living in Riverside and Chirton and the gap with North Tyneside overall has reduced to 12%. There are some local schools that have been identified as being below the floor standard (based on the provisional KS2 data) and some which will potentially be deemed as coasting once the Department of Education have confirmed the progress element of this standard. The data does show that more children are making the 'expected level' in North Tyneside than the national average. Through the work of the pupils, schools and the School Improvement Service, this trend is expected to continue. There is a particular focus on supporting schools performing less well in particular subjects. Please note that this Key Stage 2 measure has a new definition from 2016/17 (Academic Year 15/16) and is not comparable with previous years, which is why only one years worth of data is shown.

However it has recently increased slightly but this may be due to the introduction of Universal Credit, with new claimants claiming Universal Credit rather than benefits such as Employment and Support Allowance. In the most deprived areas, where the unemployment benefit claimants area highest, the gap with the rest of the Borough has reduced from 5% in 2013 to 2.6% in 2016. In addition there are 135 fewer people who have been claiming for two or more years. This trend is expected to continue through the work of the Mayors Welfare Reform Task Group, work on supporting businesses to grow and the work to support people gain the skills that businesses require.

In addition, Life Expectancy for men in the borough is now 77.8 years, meaning there is a gap of 17.6 years for men. This means that on average men in the borough can expect to live the final 17.6 years in poor health. For women Healthy Life Expectancy has risen slightly in the last few years and is 62.7 years. The Life Expectancy figure for women is now 82.7 years. This means that women in the borough can on average expect to live the final 20 years of their lives in poor health. So although Life Expectancy for women is higher than for men, this expected period of poor health is larger for women than men. The Life expectancy gap for women in the borough is smaller than for men. However, this gap appears to be getting slightly larger over the past decade rather than reducing.
